About six o'clock Saturday evening Gouncilman John Grey accosted Henry Hallam, Covington reporter of the Enquirer, on account of a paragraph which appeared in the Covington columns of that paper some time ago in connection with a case of Grey against Mehala Kearns. After some very hard words, Mr. Grey raised his cane to strike Hallam, but from what we learn, did not nit him. Mr. Grey subsequently gave himself up, and in the Mayor's Court this morning, in an elaborate speech, explained the matter, and also stated that the present reporter, in his continual personal abuse of Councrimen, and in fact every citizen, had done a great deal of injury to the city. He furthermore states that it was not through malice or any hostile feelings towards Mr. Hallam that he demanded an explanation from him, but for the future benefit and wellare of the public. The Mayor has taken his case under advisement, and will no doubt excuse Mr. Grey from any charge of breach of the peace.

What Our Hall Service Costs.

The yearly cost of mail service under contract in force on July 1st is $14,835,499 40. The increase during July by extension of routes, etc., was $15,430 20; the decrease by curtailment and suspension was $5,690 01; net increase, $0,740,76, making the total cost per annum, $14,084,240 15. Ether and Chloroform.

Mr. George Pollock, a well-known medical authority in England, has written a letter to the London Times, calling public attention to the superior qualities of other over chloroform as an anæsthetic agent. Chloroform, he asserts, is by no means "unfrequently fatal, even when administered by experienced hands;" the other anæsthetic—ctner—"may or used most freely, is devoid of dauger when pure, and has never been known to destroy a lile." The Lancet, walle admitting the general statement that other is safer that chloroform, goes on to show that such a decision is libble to make modifications.

Suow, the surgeon, described ether as the tinder-box, and chiotoform as the lucifer-match—by which he meant to convey the idea that ether is the clumstest, and at the same time the safest agent. Within a few mouths of the introduction of ether—viz.: July, 1847—a death took place from its effects at the Hotel Men d'Auxerre, and in the course of the same year other deaths, assumed to be from ether, were reperted. The effect of these eyents were startling, and shock the confidence of the procession so seriously that if chloroform bad not been introduced it is doubtful whether general anosthesia would have held its ground at all. Chioroform came to the rescue, and with its employment a given and calculable mortality. It having been pretty coltainly proved that chloroform kills at the rate of one to every 2,500 who inhale it for anosthesia, ether has again regained its position in the operating theater. It has, however, proved less handy and more expensive than its substitute, and within a period of a tew months, in Great Britain alone, a youth has died simply from its effects, two adults during its action, and more than one case of all but fatal character have been observed. Ether naving been administered so infinite a number of times less than chloroform, it is aimost next to impossible at the present time to form anything like a correct estimate of the comparative saiety of the two agents.
